

The Daily Courant.

Saturday, February 17. 1722.

Stockholm, January 24.

ON the 19th Instant, the King of Sweden came from the Copper Mines to Kongfore, where the Queen had already been two Days. Upon his Majesty's Arrival at that Palace, he dispatched an Express hither, with Letters and Orders to the Field Marschall Reenshiold and Ducker to attend him there; accordingly they both set out from hence on the 22d, and the latter took his Lady with him. It is much talked, that the King designs to make a Tour to Gottenbourg, and return by the Way of Schonen, and that he will visit all the principal Towns that way; in which Case, his Majesty can scarcely be back before the beginning of March. Major General Diemer, the Hessian Envoy, goes back, it is said, this Evening or To-morrow to the King. The Muscovite Minister that is expected, and who was to come to Abo 12 Days ago, is not yet arrived here, so that some think he is gone round the Bothnick Gulf. The mild Weather still continues, and the Mortality among the Cattle has now spread it self almost over the whole Kingdom.

Danzick, Jan. 27. It is yet uncertain whether a Congress will be held here for settling Matters between Sweden and Poland; 'tis said however, that the Proposal for one to be held here came from the Poles; that Colonel Campenhausen is instructed to make the same Proposal to the Czar; and also, that his Polish Majesty does not return to Warsaw till he knows the Czar's Resolutions concerning a Congress. The Duke of Mecklenburg continues here, and has sent Orders to several of his Household Officers to repair hither from Domitz, in order to accompany him to Petersbourg. The last Letter written by the Czar to the Emperour, and carried to Vienna by an Officer of the Duke of Mecklenburg, is said to desire his Imperial Majesty to use only Methods of Gentleness and Lenity in accommodating Matters between the Duke and his Nobility, and that in case the Duke does not receive due Satisfaction from them, the Czar cannot refrain assisting him with Forces.

Warsaw, Feb. 2. Letters from Dresden say, that the King of Poland would begin his Journey hither soon after the Fair at Leipzick is over: That it is very certain the Plague is at Choczim, Letters from Lemberg having confirmed that Account; and also, that the Cattle on this side the Danieffer begin to die of Contagion. Advices of the 12th of January from Petersbourg say, that on the Day of the Czar's Entry into Moscow, all Prisoners throughout the Russian Empire were to be set at Liberty, excepting such who are guilty of Capital Crimes, and others banished into Siberia.

Brussels, Feb. 21. On the 18th Instant the two Princes of Auvergne passed through this City on their Return from Bergen-op-zoom, having been at the Marriage of the young Princess of Auvergne their Cousin, with the second Prince Palatine of Salsbach, which Ceremony was performed on the 15th Instant with great Magnificence. The Princes staid here no longer than just to visit the Marquess de Prie, and having paid him their Compliments, continued their Journey to Paris. Orders are dispatched for exchanging the Garrisons of Imperial Troops. The Regiment of Kinigseg is to come hither from Luxemburg, and be relieved by that of Baden at Charleroy. The Regiment of Baden is to be relieved by that of Wirtemberg now here; and the Regiment of the Grand Master of the Teutonic Order is to come here in the Room of the other. In a little time the Disposition of the other Regiments of Foot and Dragoons will be regulated; as also the National Troops, commonly named Walloons. Since the Sedition which happened in this City a few Years ago, the Government by wise Precaution has forbid publick Masquerades in the Streets; but the General Quiet being perfectly re-established, the Marquess de Prie has given leave, as formerly that Masquerades may be permitted during the last three Days of the Carneval, so that Troops of the Common People are now running masked about the Streets, diverting themselves according to the usual Custom; and upon Shrove-Tuesday, being the last Day of the Carneval, all the Chief of the Nobility and other Persons of Distinction went to the Ring in their Coaches: The Marquess de Prie and the Marchioness his Spouse were likewise there in their Coach of State, preceded by 16 Valets on Foot and two Pages, and two others followed on Horseback. The Pope's Bull has been lately sent hither by the Cardinal d'Asse, Archbishop of Malines and Primate of the Low Countries, and will be published To-morrow in all the Churches of this Diocess, giving leave to eat Flesh four Days a Week during Lent, in order to prevent such Distempers as might be occasioned by bad Diet among the Common People. Letters of the 11th Instant from Cambray say, that the Imperial Plenipotentiary M. Bentenrieder was received with great Honours at his Entrance to that City, being met at some Distance from it by M. de Laurier the Commandant, who, at the Head of a Troop of Horse, conducted M. de Bentenrieder to the Town; he was saluted at his Arrival by 23 Guns discharged from the Basons opposite to the Gate where the Guard was drawn out under Arms, from whence himself and Train proceeded through great Crowds of Spectators to the Hôtel taken for his Residence, and there the City Magistrates attended his coming, congratulated him on his Arrival, and presented him with the Wine of Honour. Soon after he was waited upon by the Clergy, Canons, and Abbés; and by all the Officers of the three Regiments here in Garrison, who were presented to the Plenipotentiary by M. de Laurier the Commandant. His Excellency in the mean Time had sent Notification of his Arrival by one of his Gentlemen, to the Plenipotentiaries of France, to those of Spain, and of Sardinia, who without returning any Messenger, went immediately themselves and paid him their Compliments. M. de Morville, Plenipotentiary of France, visited first; he was followed by the Conde de San Estevan first Plenipotentiary of Spain, and soon after by the second the Marquess de Beretti Landi; the last Visit was made by the Count de Provana, Plenipotentiary Minister of Sardinia. M. de Bentenrieder reconducted these Ministers to their Coaches; but they were not all received with equal Ceremony, because because they would not give his Excellency Time to observe the exact Parts of the Ceremonial. In an Hour afterwards M. de Bentenrieder returned these Visits to the several Plenipotentiaries; first he visited the Count de Morville; next the Conde de San Estevan; then the Marquess de Beretti Landi; and lastly, the Count de Provana; all of them waited on his Excellency back to his Coach, and staid till it drove off. The Count de Morville invited him at Night to Sup at his House in Company with the other Ministers, and several of the Nobility in Town. The next Day, the Conde de San Estevan invited him to Dinner with the same Company; at Night his Excellency supped with the Commandant; The third Day he dined with the Marquess Beretti Landi, and the fourth with the Count de Provana. Among the other Visits of Ceremony paid to M. de Bentenrieder at his Arrival, he received one from the Count de St. Severin, Minister of Parma, whom his Excellency reconducted to the Door of the Antichamber.
